---VARIETAL---

Arinto - a white grape variety that originates from Portugal.

---REGION---

Riverland

---TECHNICAL STUFF---

Viticulture: This grape variety has an ability to maintain natural acid even in warm viticultural climates, which is essential for making high quality wines. Bud burst is very similar to Chardonnay (early/middle September). Growth habits of the vegetative shoots are up-right (imagine Sauvignon Blanc). The clusters are tight but grape skins are thick. Harvest (at a target 12.8 Baume) is late February.

Winemaking: Barrel fermented in old oak barrels for three months. Barrels lees stirred regularly. Winemaking intervention was minimal.

Soil type: red loam over limestone
